LOS ANGELES CAR LINES

The street railway system of Los Angeles is remarkably good. Probably no city of its size in the country has so modern and well equipped a system. Suburban electric railroads radiating from Los Angeles aggregate 1059 miles of track. Much of this is double, while one of the main lines to the beaches is a four-track system.

There are two street railways, the Los Angeles Ry., known as the "Yellow Car Line," and the Pacific Electric Ry., known as the "Red Car Line," so called from the color of the cars.

Los Angeles Ry., Main office, Pacific Electric Bldg., 6th and Main.

Pacific Electric Ry., Main office and Interurban Station, 6th and Main.

Pacific Electric Ry., Interurban and Hollywood cars, Hill St. Station, between 4th and 5th.

NOTICE TO USERS OF THIS GUIDE

This simplified guide, carefully compiled from the most recent available data, on the same lines as the condensed guides of many of the eastern cities must be understood to be of the greatest value. In using it bear in mind that it claims to be clear, condensed, simplified, giving the main intersections only; but all intersections can be readily found if the guide is understood. For example: You wish to find where Ambrose Avenue intersects Vermont Avenue. It is not given under Vermont Avenue. Turn to Ambrose Av. and you will find that it ends with 2100 Vermont Avenue.

This guide contains the names of all the streets in the city of Los Angeles except those in the portion south of Manchester, known as The Shoestring, San Pedro, Wilmington, Sawtelle and San Fernando Valley. For the information of the stranger, we will say that San Pedro and Wilmington are 22 miles south from the heart of Los Angeles, Sawtelle 14 miles, and San Fernando Valley 12 miles northwest.

Main St. and First St. are the two dividing points; most of the streets running east and west from Main have the prefix "E" and "W". Those running north and south from First have the prefix "N" and "S". In East Los Angeles, N. Broadway divides the streets into N. and S. From Ave. 26 to 61, Pasadena Ave. divides the streets into E. and W.

Figures following the name of the street indicate the index to the map in the back of the book. The number of the car after the name of the street or the intersecting street will show which car will carry you nearest to the desired points. Turn to pages 12-15 and find a description of the car-line indicated by the number given. Streets marked with asterisk are not on map.

COMPLIMENTS

[illegible]

By consulting cardos of household goods, pianos and automobiles, we offer to the public reduced freight rates and through car service to and from nearly all points in the United States and Canada.

Intending shippers cannot afford to overlook the many advantages offered by our shipping department. ASK FOR RATES.

The packing of fine household furniture, china, cut glass, bric-a-brac, paintings and works of art is a feature of our business to which we are devoting the greatest attention. The men who do this work are members of our co-operative association. They take a personal interest in giving satisfaction, and many of our patrons have expressed their appreciation of this feature which means greatly improved service.

Our moving and packing departments are conducted on a co-operative basis. Under this system, our forces enjoy all the profits of their labour, and by reason of this we have been able to secure the services of men who have established a reputation for reliability and efficiency. They have special reason to please our patrons who can depend upon receiving courteous treatment and desirable service which we guarantee.
